Summary

I'm a web designer and digital project manager with 10+ years delivering complex projects end to end. While my career has been shaped by web/visual design and digital project management, I am no stranger to the events world: I spent two years at Ungerboeck building digital experiences for live events, and I have managed the full digital output of an international academic conference from scratch. Beyond the technical side, I bring the ability to communicate across very different profiles — scientists, suppliers, creatives, developers — and the personal organisation and resilience that comes from building a career across countries and cultures. I'm based in Heidelberg, and I'm ready to contribute from day one.
